

Uniqueness of the Department:

What sets the Department apart is its deep institutional commitment to promoting Assamese studies outside its native geographical range. It is the only such department in India under a Central University framework that is steadfastly engaged in strengthening the academic discourse on Assamese language and literature beyond the state of Assam. Its sustained outreach efforts have created a vibrant platform where academic study is harmoniously blended with cultural practice.